Casino Chip Collectors Have a New Tool Available to Network with Other Collectors to Locate, Accumulate or Trade Chips

Unique benefits of the expanded functionality of the Museum of Gaming History's ChipGuide explained in free online seminar

LAS VEGAS, Nevada (December 20, 2025) — Casino chip collectors are always looking to expand their collections, and sometimes the best source for that elusive hard-to-find chip is other collectors. The Museum of Gaming History (MoGH), an educational project of the Casino Collectibles Association (CCA), has made that accessibility easier with a special “My Collection” feature of the club’s ChipGuide database. The ChipGuide is the hobby’s primary casino chip resource, a free online catalog of over 334,000 collectible items from 32,000 casinos worldwide.

The first benefit of the My Collection feature allows collectors to set up several lists for their casino collectibles that are always available online. This saves collectors from inadvertently adding duplicates or passing up items they thought they already owned.

Collectors can then set up lists of chips they want to acquire or trade. Through a trade maker function, these lists are matched to other collector's list to facilitate trades. To protect collector's privacy, only they can authorize access to their lists.

The MoGH is offering a free hour-long online (Zoom) seminar to share how the ChipGuide My Collection feature works. The non-cost seminar is open to the public and will be held on Tuesday, January 20, 2026 at 9 pm EST. This is the first of a planned series of seminars on a variety of casino memorabilia and gaming history.
